II. PARTICIPATION IN VIET NAM TEACH-IN AND PUBLIC REACTIONS THEREOF

A. Reaction to Teach-In on April 23, 1965

Source furnished a report, dated June 28, 1965, to the General Assembly of the State of New Jersey regarding subject and the Viet Nam teach-in at Rutgers University on April 23, 1965. This report, which was made by the New Jersey State Assemblymen, reflected that they were in-complete disagreement with the subject's views yet recommended, however, that the administration of Rutgers University reappraise the regulations pertaining to academic freedom and employment procedures in this regard.

NY T-2 September, 1965

A report furnished for public consumption, dated August 6, 1965, was prepared for presentation to Governor RICHARD J. HUGHES of New Jersey by the Board of Governors, Rutgers University. This report concerned the teach-in of April 23, 1965, at which subject stated he welcomed a victory for the Viet Cong. This report reflected that although all members of the Board were completely out of sympathy with the views of the subject his remarks did not constitute grounds for dismissal.

"The New York Herald Tribune", October 29, 1965, Late City Edition, page-11, contained an article reflecting that New Jersey State Senator WAYNE DUMONT, Republican candidate for Governor of New Jersey, urged prosecution of subject under a 1918 law of the State of New Jersey which made it an offense for any citizen to advocate to other citizens that they should not aid the United States in carrying out war with its enemies.

"The New York Times", April 15, 1966, page 7, Late City Edition, reflected subject was due to appear at another teach-in at Rutgers University in the near future.

"The New York World Telegram and Sun", April 19, 1966, page 23 of the Metro Edition, reflected that the subject would participate in another teach-in at Rutgers University entitled "Southeast Asia: One Year later."

"The New York World Telegram and Sun", April 20, 1966, Metro Edition, page 13, contained an article "Professor Renews Opposition to War in Talk at Rutgers." This article reflected that a year after his "victory for the Viet Cong" speech subject, at a teach-in at Rutgers University previous evening, again attacked our involvement in Viet Nam. Subject stated "The Communists are probably the only force capable of restoring order in leading a national reconstruction and implementing a lasting agreement" in Viet Nam.

"The New York Times", April 20, 1966, Late City Edition, page 40, reflected that subject went before another teach-in and declared "I said here a year ago, as I say now, a Communist ascendency in Viet Nam is not to be feared but welcomed."

On April 19, 1966 and April 20, 1966, a teach-in was held at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, New Jersey, which was sponsored by the Universities Committee on the Problems of War and Peace and the subject was the main speaker.

NY T-3 April 21, 1966

On April 20, 1966, the above described teach-in was held and subject stated he did not regret his statement of a year ago when he stated he would welcome a Viet Cong victory.

NY T-3 April 20, 1966

"The New York Post", May 14, 1966, Final Edition, page 2, contained an article entitled "Rutgers Refuses to Oust Genovese." This article reflected that Rutgers University Board of Trustees had refused to dismiss Associate Professor EUGENE GENOVESE, who said he would welcome a Viet Cong victory in Viet Nam. The Board said that it found much that "is offensive to us and with which we completely disagree, but nothing that violates any law of the nation, state, or any regulation of the University."

"The New York Times", May 14, 1966, Late City Edition, page 28, contained a similar article as that stated above which reflected Rutgers Board of Trustees refused to dismiss subject.

III. MISCELLANEOUS

Subject attended the First Annual Socialist Scholars Conference which was held at Columbia University, New York City, and took a prominent part therein.

NY T-4 September 21, 1965

Source furnished a program published by the Second Annual Socialist Scholars Conference held at the Hotel Commodore, New York City, from September 9th September 11, 1966. This program reflected that subject was a member of the Steering Committee of this conference.

NY T-5 September 19, 1966

The program mentioned above reflected the following:

The Socialist Scholars Conference is an independent association formed in 1965, to provide opportunities for the scholarly discussion of subjects of interest to Socialists.

On September 29, 1965, a teach-in was scheduled to be held by the Committee for Free Speech (CFFS), at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, New Jersey. Five speakers were scheduled to talk on legal and intellectual aspects of civil liberties and academic freedom. The subject was one of those who was scheduled to speak.

NY T-6 September 21, 1965

CFFS was formed in August, 1965, at Rutgers University for the purpose of protecting individual rights of free expression and to oppose those who would stiffle dissent on any issue.

NY T-6
September 21, 1965

"The New York Herald Tribune", September 30, 1965, page 14, contained an article captioned "Rutgers Teach-In--2,000 Attend, But Not Genovese." This article reflected that subject did not attend the scheduled teach-in on September 29, 1965.

On November 5, 1965, the "National Guardian" held its 17th Annual dinner at the Imperial Ballroom, Hotel Americana, 7th Avenue and 53rd Street, New York City, and subject was in attendance.

NY T-7 November 19, 1965

For a characterization of the "National Guardian" see the appendix of this report.

On February 24, 1966, a Forum sponsored by the "National Guardian" was held at the Riverside Plaza Hotel, New York, New York. Subject spoke on the "new left" and stated that Socialism will come about only when accepted by the people.

NY T-5 March 4, 1966 NY T-7 March 1, 1966 NY T-8 March 14, 1966 NY T-9 March 3, 1966 NY T-10 March 8, 1966

"The Newark Sunday News", March 20, 1966, page C-5, in an article entitled "Dumont, Genovese to Share Platform." This article reflected that the American Civil Liberties Union would hold a meeting on April 23, 1966, at Rutgers University to discuss "the right to protest" and that subject would be one of the speakers.

On April 15, 1966, the Philadelphia Committee of the "National Guardian" held a public Forum on the north roof of the Adelphia Hotel, 13th and Chesnut Streets, Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. Subject was a guest speaker and stated that the United States should get out of Viet Nam.

NY T-12 April 29, 1966

For a characterization of the W. E. B. Du Bois Clubs of America see the appendix of this report.

On April 28, 1966, a testimonial dinner for HERBERT APTHEKER was held at the Hilton Hotel, New York City. Subject was scheduled to be present, did not attend, but did send a message of congratulations to APTHEKER.

NY T-5 May 10, 1966 NY T-7 May 3, 1966 NY T-13 May 2, 1966 NY T-14 May 2, 1966

HERBERT APTHEKER was elected to the National Committee of the Communist Party, United States of America, at the 18th National Convention of the Communist Party held June 22 - June 26, 1966, at New York City.

NY T-15 June 30, 1966

On May 14, 1966, subject spoke concerning the "new left" and the "old left" at the Free University, 20 East 14th Street, New York City.

NY T-16 June 24, 1966

For a characterization of the Free University see the appendix of this report.

"The National Guardian", July 23, 1966, page 5, contained an ad for the election of Doctor HERBERT APTHEKER, candidate for Congress, Brooklyn, New York. Among the sponsors listed supporting APTHEKER was the subject.

On August 8, 1966, a meeting of the Independent Citizens Committee for the Election of HERBERT APTHEKER to Congress was held at 1110 Eastern Parkway, Brooklyn, New York. At this meeting a list of sponsors was given and subject was included among these sponsors.

NY T-17 August 10, 1966

IV. FOREIGN TRAVEL

On October 4. 1966,

for the United States KIM Airlines,

509 5th Avenue, New York City, advised SA that subject was aboard KLM charter flight 5730 which left

John F. Kennedy International Airport on May 30, 1966, to Amsterdam and returned from Amsterdam to New York on June 24, 1966.

This flight also carried the Rutgers Glee Club, Rutgers University,

New Brunswick, New Jersey.

The July - August, 1966, edition of "Studies on the Left" reflects that subject is one of the editors.

For a characterization of "Studies on the Left" see appendix of this report.

FREE UNIVERSITY OF NEW YORK (FUNY)

The "New York Times," a daily newspaper published in New York City, contained an article in its July 11, 1965, issue entitled "Radicals Set Up Own University." The article indicated that this school, called the Free University of New York (FUNY) opened on the previous Tuesday in an old loft building at 20 East 14th Street, New York City, and reportedly had 210 students registered. The article also indicated that the funds for establishing the FUNY and funds for its operation were supplied in part by non-salaried faculty members, most of whom contributed $30 each and also by the students who pay $24 for each eight week course.

The May 28, 1965, issue of "Newsday," a daily
Long Island, New York, newspaper, contained an article entitled "Krebs To Open His Own School." This article related that a former Adelphi University professor, who claimed he was fired from Adelphi University for his avowed Marxist views, was planning to open a university of his own in a rented Manhattan, New York, loft
A source advised on March 14, 1966, that, an expelled former secret member of the Progressive Labor Party (PLP),

b6 b7C

The same source advised on August 18, 1965, that the FUNY is not known to be a part of the PLP but is rather a combination of different groups in the New York City area.

The "New York Times" in its issue dated December 12, 1965, contained an article entitled "Students of Left Set Up Colleges." This article indicated that a number of "Counter-Universities" or "Anti-Universities" have been established in various cities throughout the United States like the FUNY. The article mentioned that these institutions vary in many ways. Some are operated under the auspicies of a specific organization belonging to the so-called "New Left," however, others, like the FUNY say they are independent of any organization and try to offer courses of a broader cultural orientation.

The Winter, 1966 Catalog of the FUNY contains a list of 42 courses offered ranging from discussions of various radical movements and revolutions, classes on Marxism, labor movements, racial prejudices, sex and hallucinogenic drugs.

"NATIONAL GUARDIAN"

The "Guide to Subversive Organizations and Publications," revised and published as of December 1, 1961, prepared and released by the Committee on Un-American Activities, United States House of Representatives, Washington, D.C., contains the following concerning the "National Guardian":

"NATIONAL GUARDIAN

W. E. B. DU BOIS CLUBS OF AMERICA (DCA)

A source has advised that on October 26-27, 1963, a conference of members of the Communist Party (CP), including national functionaries, met in Chicago, Illinois, for the purpose of setting in motion forces for the establishment of a new national Marxist-oriented youth organization which would hunt for the most peaceful transition to socialism. The delegates were told that it would be reasonable to assume that the young socialists attracted into this new organization would eventually pass into the CP itself.

A second source has advised that the founding convention for the new youth organization was held from June 19-21, 1964, at 150 Golden Gate Avenue, San Francisco, California, at which time the name W.E.B. DuBois Clubs of America (DCA) was adopted. Approximately 500 delegates from throughout the United States attended this convention. The aims of this organization, as set forth in the preamble to the constitution, are: "It is our belief that this nation can best solve its problems in an atmosphere of peaceful coexistence, complete disarmament and true freedom for all peoples of the world, and that these solutions will be reached mainly through the united efforts of all democratic elements in our country, composed essentially of the working people allied in the unity of Negroes and other minorities with whites. We further fully recognize that the greatest threat to American democracy comes from the racist and right wing forces in coalition with the most reactionary sections of the economic power structure, using the tool of anti-Communism to divide and destroy the unified struggle of the working people."

Over the Labor Day weekend, 1965, the DCA held a conference in Chicago, Illinois, and a new slate of officers was elected to the National Executive Committee (NEC) of the DCA. Since Labor Day, 1965, identities of those serving on the NEC has varied; however, according to a third source as of May, 1966, thirteen of the fifteen members of the NEC were members of the CP in the San Francisco Bay area.

As of July, 1966, the headquarters of the DCA was located at 180 North Wacker Drive, Chicago, Illinois.

B. Employment

Professor EUGENE GENOVESE, on March 1, 1967, announced that he was resigning from his position at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, and that he had accepted a teaching position at Sir George Williams University in Montreal, Canada. His resignation was to be effective as of July, 1967.

"The Star Ledger" Final edition Page 17 March 2, 1967

During 1967, the subject was employed as a Professor at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, New Jersey.

He has reportedly accepted a new teaching position at Sir George Williams University, Montreal, Canada, beginning in September, 1967,

New York, New York September 12, 1967

II. AFFILIATION WITH SOCIALISTS SCHOLARS CONFERENCE

The subject attended the Second Annual Socialists Scholars Conference (SSC) held at the Hotel Commodore, New York City, September 9 and September 11, 1966.

NY T-1 October 6, 1967

Information was made available which disclosed that the subject as of January 23, 1967, was chairman of the SSC Steering Committee in 1967.

III. AFFILIATION WITH DISCUSSIONS UNLIMITED, INCORPORATED (DUI)

A characterization of DUI appears in the appendix.

The subject spoke on December 2, 1966, at atDUI meeting held at Los Angeles Trade College, Washington Boulevard, Los Angeles, California. He said that world peace today is not being threatened by the "socialist world", but by the "imperialist camp". He stated that he had read the program of the communist party. While he disagreed with the communist party in most parts, he still felt that it was the only political group in the United States that put forth a prospective of its plans.

NY T-3 December 9, 1966

IV. PASSPORT INFORMATION

The files of the Passport Office, United States Department of State, were reviewed. A file for the subject disclosed that he was issued United States Passport number G288718, on April 5, 1966, for proposed trip to England, France, and Italy, for the purpose of research. This passport is valid for travel to all countries except Albania, Cuba, and China, Korea, and Vietnam. The passport expires on April 4, 1969, and may be renewed for 2 years.

6 months previously and a year ago he uttered a similar view. The Board of Governors found GENOVESE's views offensive and disagreed strongly but stated "in accordance with the American principal of academic freedom and civil liberty his statement did not constitute grounds for dismissal from Rutgers University."

DISCUSSION UNLIMITED, INC.

Records of the Division of Corporations, California State Department of Investments, Los Angeles, California, indicate that Discussion Unlimited filed its Articles of Incorporation as a nonprofit corporation, with the Secretary of State, Sacramento, California, on or about June 4, 1963, noting its principal site of office as Los Angeles County, California. The aims and purposes of the organization, as listed in the Articles of Incorporation, are "...to promote full and open discussion on our society and problems".

A source advised on May 8, 1963, that Discussion Unlimited, Inc. actually was originated in Los Angeles, California, in May, 1962, and was composed largely of a number of present and former Communist Party members who assist in staging panel forums and in promoting such events. Original coordinator of the group was ______, who in 1961, was _______ of the Southern California District Communist Party.

This source was recontacted on April 9, 1965, and indicated that the basic concept of Discussion Unlimited, Inc. has not changed. It continues to present "left ideas" to at least partially non-committed audiences. It proposes to develop special activities around various issues on an irregular basis. It is not a membership organization, and does not hold regular meetings as such, but rather is strictly a forum-type organization.

On May 10, 1966, another source reported that Discussion Unlimited, Inc. continues to operate as a forumtype organization.

Prof. Genovese Now Teaching Here, His Life Is Quiet, And He Still Believes

Two years ago a Rutgers University professor came the centre of a bitter political storm following a pro-Viet Cong statement he made at a campus teach-

"Eugene, D. Genovese, Ph.D., professor of American history, professed Marxist; and Socialist; and former member of the American Communist Party, thus became the total point of the turbulent 1965 New Jersey gubernatorial election.

There had been a teachin at Rutgers in April that year, and, said Genovese, i. . . in the course of my remarks I said I was a Marxist and a Socialist . and said therefore that I would welcome a Viet Cong victory in Vietnam."

This, he points out, was prior to full commitment of U.S. troops as a main fighting force there, and his reference was to a political victory by the National Liberation Front.

He felt at the time, and feels today, that a Communist regime would be best for Vietnam.

Rutgers, though it did not fire Genovese, made life uncomfortable for him, and he resigned in the spring of 1966. After receiving offers from several top U.S. universities, Genovese accepted a position in the History Department of Sir George Williams University in Montreal, and began teaching here this autumn.

In a scries of exclusive interviews recently, Professor Genovese talked about himself, his career and his political views.

The 37-year-old Genovese was born and raised in Brooklyn, N.Y., by Italian-American parents. Politically, he became active Believing the fundamentals of Mark to be sound, he worked as an organizer in a Communist youth movement and eventually joined the American Communist Party.

In 1950, when he had just turned 20, Genovese was expelled from the party over policy differences. "I zigged when I should have zagged," he says with a wry smile.

But the expulsion dealt a traumatic blow to the young Genovese. He says that the experience, was similar to that of a religious person. who has been excommuniBy Philip Winslow cated from the church. "I' felt cut off completely."

But the setback in no way diminished his interest in Marxism. "I have never really been close to repudiation of my basic commitments."

Genovese has never attempted to conceal his political views. When he went to Rutgers he saw to it that the university was informed of his background.

"Rutgers' position," he said, "was that they were interested in me as a scholar and teacher and weren't interested in my politics,"

But Genovese's statement at the campus teach-in and the ensuing uproar-did more than spark a controversy over academic freedom.

The Republican nominee for governor that year, N.J. Senator Wayne Dumont, made the incident his campaign issue.

"The university refused to fire me," Genovese says, "and Governor Hughes sup-that "unlike ten years before, it wasn't possible to panic the electorate with a Communist scare."

Fifteen years ago, Rutgers dismissed three professors for alleged associations with the Communist Party.

Genovese then offered to resign from Rutgers, he said, it the university felt its best interests would be served and as long as there were no personal attacks on him.

"They assured me they wanted me to remain . . . hut as soon as the heat was off, they started putting the squeeze on me in the areas of salary and promotion. tion.

"I think they were surprised when I resigned ...... they did respect me as a scholar and teacher."

Genovese emphasizes that he did not leave the U.S. under pressure. "The reason I came to Sir George

"Therefore, Western socialists must reorganize in order to effect a structural stransformation of society. from within," he said.

"Capitalism has estabilized itself in the West, and western countries will have to be transformed less dra-matically, he adds.

"I do hope that in the next few years a serious socialist movement will socialist movement will emerge in the U.S.," he says, wistfully, "... but right now there's nothing," Dispensing with the control of the cont Dispensing with the American Communist Party as being "a fossil" he said "It has become basically a liberal reform movement . it's lost its vigor and has a minimum of political and intellectual integrity . . . there's no talent left in the party. Its structure has become too bureaucratic to permit a positive development."

About increasing American activity in Thailand and other Asian countries, Prof. Genovese says, "The U.S. is going to pursue this kind, of aggression everywhere . . . we (Americans) can cause a great deal of bloodshed in the next 50 or 60 years."

"Time is on our side;" he says of world socialism. "The most reasonable expectation . . . is: for the gradual rollback of imperialist control . . . not by slow evolution but by fits and jerks . . ." Socialism, while not panacea to the world's dif-ficulties, "creates favorable conditions for the solution of problems."

Eugene Genovese, meanwhile, pursues his role as an educator. He; is delighted with Sir George, and his teaching appointment here, and plans to remain in Canada "as long as it is profitable and pleasant to do 30.**.

Does he anticipate any trouble here, or anything resembling the Rutgers ruckus?

"Anticipate?" he smiled. "I never anticipate anything, . . . and nothing surprises me:/So far, so good:"

"THE GEORGIAN"

ISSUE OF 28-11-57

Fundamental Rationality of Imperialist Policy

Part I of the text of Prof Genovese's speech, delivered at Sir George. This part is an analysis of the Capitalist-Socialist world situation.

Part II deals primarily with the actions of certain members of the Sir George faculty and possible action of those wishing to change the power structure.

The war in Viet Nam has once again confronted the world with the spectre of nuclear war. With each new escalation the discredited and increasingly irrational Johnson administration brings itself closer to that fateful decision. This spectre raises three possibilities.

(1) that there will be a general nuclear war between the socialist and capitalist camps;

(2) that there will be limited wars with nuclear weapons and with as yet undetermined effects on the world balance of power; and

(3) that there will be limited wars with conventional weapons only. The first possibility - that of a general nuclear war - raises . long range problems. If such a war takes place - and it is certainly a possibility - we need not worry about our future. The other two possibilities are merely variations on the same theme, and together they constitute the overwhelming probability. Today, I do not wish to discuss the war in Viet Nam itself, but do wish to assess the significance of this and others likely to follow on the prospects for the socialist transformation of Western society. I therefore address myself primarily, but I hope not exclusively, to the leftwing of this campus.

To begin with, let me insist on the fundamental rationality of general imperialist policy, notwithstand, ing the increasing irrationality of Johnson's particular policy in Viet Nam. That policy is merely, the continuation, under more complicated conditions of the policy is merely. licy adopted toward the USSR after the Bolshevik Revolution. Its major thrust has been to force the socialist countries to divert their national resources from social and economic construction into a staggering arms race, which the United States alone can afford with some ease. Since the socialist countries have been poor and backward and have therefore had to engage in forced-march industrialization under painful conditions, this imperialist strategy has. made great sense. In recent years it has been applied with special force to China. Despite all the absurd propaganda about Chinese agressiveness, the fac remains that the United States has virtually been way ing war on China for more than 20 years. The United States intervened in the Chinese civil war by sending troops to assist Chiang Kai Shek in Manchuria.

When Chiang's army collapsed, the United States detached Taiwan and has ever since protected the Kuomintang regime there. To do so, the United States had to repudiate the Cairo agreement, in which it solemnly promised to respect Chinese claims to Taiwan as part of the national territory. American arrogance on this question may be measured by the juxtaposition of two facts. On the one hand, the American press exults over, and the American airforce protects, periodic Kuomintang attacks on the mainland, On the other hand, Washington has said bluntly that any Communist attack on Taiwan, even in retaliation for such strikes, will be considered as an act of war on the United States. The United States, in addition, maintains client states in South Korea and South Viet Nam on both Chinese flanks - and has maintained a fleet, armed almost entirely with nuclear weapons, off the Chinese coast. It has, in short, forced the Chinese to accept a situation such as has not confronted any other major power in recent times. These have been extreme provocations; they have virtually been acts of war. In the face of them, I believe we can say without falling prey to romantic rhetoric, that the Chinese response has been a model of restraint and responsibility and that we are justified in regarding the Chinese leaders as among the most mature and self-controlled in the world today.

American policy has been a clear failure in its ultimate objective to prevent industrialization and provoke mass discontent and insurrection. On other levels, however, it has been partially successful. For one thing it has forced the socialist world to adopt stern, repressive, and sometimes totalitarian measures in order to defend itself against the constant threat of aggression. These measures, as best illustrated by Stalin's rule in Russia, have naturally tended to find institutional and bureaucratic expressions, which in turn have hardened and taken on a life of their own. As a result, socialism, as it has so far appeared in the world, has been identified, however superficially and unfairly, with opposition to freedom and democracy.

Whether or not these opportunities can be realized depends largely on our own wisdom and effort. The opportunities could easily be thrown away by timidity or, alternatively, by absurd adventurism. Avoidance of these twin pitfalls depends entirely on our own ability to analyze and understand a rapidly changing and increasingly complex world. The failure of the Left in North America has not, as one of our local ignoramuses recently suggested, been due to its passivity. This is an idle slander, which betrays and almost total ignorance of its history. On the contrary, it has been and remains courageous, militant, and action-oriented. The problem has been its failure to understand the world in which its action must take place and it has therefore spent its best efforts without lasting results. For this reason alone, those who deprecate theoretical work and scorn the intellectual'community are proposing to lead you to one more act of senseless adventures, which can only end in defeat and disillutionment.

The movement that must be built to oppose imperialism and to struggle for a transformation of society will necessarily have to be based on the workers and the technical stratas but the ideological leadership will have to cmerge from the intelligentsia. This means that the universities have a major role to play, To say, as some do, that they are merely bourgeois institutions involved in a conspiracy to brainwash students is to talk like a 19th century Populist - if not a nincompoop, These institutions have had a complex history and manifest a contradictory character, But they have generally been the advanced guard of freedom of thought within the bourgeois world, and they have represented the highest form of the tradition of Anglo-Saxon liberty - a precious tradition for which much blood has been spilled and which requires militant defense. Certainly, they have often disgraced themselves and have betrayed their own heritage. The fact remains that, as institutions, they embody a splendid tradition of free discourse and as such present favorable opportunities for the training of a so--cialist intelligentsia. Our task, accordingly, is not to draw a blind and stupid analogy between the class confrontation of worker and capitalist and the relations among administration, faculty, and student, which are potentially relations of community unity in defense of institutional autonomy.

On the contrary, our task is to demand that each section of that community defend the autonomy of the institution against all outside pressures and that, simultaneously, maximum freedom of speach be preserved within. As socialists, we must, for example, defend at all cost, the right of reactionary bourgeois professors to speak and teach here. And we must do, so not in deferance to some empty liberal notion of toleration, but because we cannot possibly develop our critical faculties and our ability to communicate with the masses we must win unless we are constantly engaged in high-level ideological war. For this reason alone, only an idiot would tell you that bourgeois philosophers, sociologists, or historians have nothing to teach you. Ask these idiots a question: If the bourgeois ideologues are so foolish and knavish and our revolutionary heroes are so elever and principled, how come these fools and knaves beat the hell out of us in open debate so often? The masses are not stupid. They do not follow the bourgeoisie because they are dupes or cowards. The fact is that we have not yet confronted our enemies with a total world view embraced in a viable political movement, As professors and students we have a major role to play in this work. It requires an appreciation of the magnitude of the task, a proper disdain for phrase-mongering, and a willingness to test every idea against tough and learned opponents; and it requires steady nerves, patient and steady work under discouraging conditions, and coolness under fire. What is needed now and will be needed in the decades ahead is not romantic rhetoric appeals to nonexisting barricades, and pompous invitations to self immolation; what is needed is a disciplined and modest awareness that we have convinced our own people to turn away from a social order they simply take for granted and to oppose it resolutely. To do that each of us will have to do his thing - a modern version, I suppose, of the Calvinist doctrine of the calling. We shall have to learn to divide our time between necessary political action, some of which will certainly have to be in the streets, and that patient, steady, unromantic work of becoming serious intellectuals - intellectuals worthy of respect, who can influence and persuade, rather than exhort and bully. If this perspective seems tame, so be it. I nonetheless say, that those who counsel immediate confrontation with the state are fakers who will themselves do no such thing, The role of the radical professor today is to present his students with a new world view, not as a general sermon on social issues, but in its specific manifestation within his own discipline. To do this, he must first be a serious scholar, the master of his material, who respects the viewpoints of others and who is ready to test his mettle regularly by confronting the views of others. And the role of the radical student is to win his fellow students to that world view.

This requires respect for their sensibilities as well as their ideas; it requires the willingness to set an example by serious and excellent work as a student; and it requires an eagerness to engage in a rational, well mannered, and decent exchange of opinions. Our students are neither corrupt, nor venal, nor stupid, they are imprisoned by a hegemonicy bourgeois world view. To reorieng them requires, first of all, being their friends, being willing to learn from them as well as to teach them, and being able to speak their language. And therefore I respectfully suggest to you ( that he who preserves his militancy and , readiness for harsh confrontations when they are necessary and proper while simultaneously setting an example by his excellence as a student and a developing intellectual - that he and he alone among our students deserves to be respected as a fighter for socialism and for the revolutionary transformation of society.

Scholars Conference

by Robert Johnston

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J.-Young radicals last week besieged the convention of Political American Washington, D.C. with a series of demands aimed, they said, at making political science relevant to according to the science relevant to the sci science relevant to contemporary political and social issues. But at the same time, speakers at the fourth annual Socialist Scholars Conference, at Rutgers University, emphasized the need for more detached intellectual work to build a broader, more solid base for social improvement.

Some of the SSC speakers and issues raised:

-Christopher Lasch; from Northwestern University, decried America's lack, of a revolutionary tradition and called for the emergence of a revolutionary culture tied to political and economic ac-tion -- "revolution must be born from the deepest feelings of the people, but Americans have never had to look deeply. into themselves".

--Ernest Mandel, editor of the Belgian weekly La Gauche and participant in the French student-worker, demonstrations of last spring, declared that the French experience clearly proved, that a "socialist revolution is possible in an advanced, industrial country" -- "the country" ustrial country" -- "the students alone decided neither the course nor the outcome of the demonstrations; it was decided the first day of the general strike by workers who made a united commitment to running their own lives".

-Eugene Genovese, from
Sir George Williams University, in a paper on Harold Cruse's The Crisis of the Negro Intellectual argued that Cruse understates and underestimates the strength and depth of American raand depth of American racism toward blacks and misjudges the potential relevance toward the problem of racism of a black nationalist response -- "Cruse is silent on the opportunism and treachery that have pervaded every nationalist movement in history".

-James Weinstein, author of The Decline of Socialism.

in America, 1912-1925, scored socialist intellectuals' "historial inability to conceptualize a model of post-industrial socialism" - the surplus population of the the surplus population of the U.S. ghettos and the detachment of American youth from alienating work, thereby avoiding co-optation into the expanding consumer economy, underscoring the need for a new vision of socialism which understands the changes and needs of this new society;

--Gar Alperovitz, from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, stressed the emerging role of decentralization in planning such a socialist vision -- "small communities" with a socialist orientation "seem to speak to the problem of alienation among blacks and youth in this country".

These trends of thought seemed to stand out at the conference: the old social-ist-Marxist vision is no longer adequate to map out future social changes and alternatives; those revolutionary groups participating in the development of a socialist future must not think in American or "statist" terms, on pain of co-optation by the imperialist ethic; decentralization, or people's control over their own lives, must be a major tenet of socialist goals; blacks and youth are the most available potential recruits to a socialist revolution, but the reactionary alienation of the worker is at least a hopeful sign of potentially fruitful disruption.

In constructing a new socialist vision a number of speakers stressed the importance of uniting a "strong cultural front with changes on the political and economic on the political and economic frontiers". Genovese said "white America must be restructured if white America is to be free," which he said follows from Marx's call for the "decentralization and liberation of the cultural apparatus from the elite" elite' elite".

"Either the left must reorganize itself for the battle of cultural hegemony," Genovese declared, "or political power is lost. We must end the nauseating and degrading tendency of the white left to live vicariously through the black revolt. We will have to save ourselves".

will have to save ourselves".
"Most quantitative socialist demands have been met," Weinstein said, "wages, hours, benefits, etc. But this hardly gets to the root of the problem. We still have a crisis in financing social. products, as opposed to sub-sidizing private industry."
"The problem," he said,
"is to get socialist intellectuals organized for a competent critique of American society. Without that we cannot have a revolutionary politics, and without that we cannot have a revolution".

The question of statism or nationalism was touched upon by all the panelists discussing Cruse's book, and was an underlying assumption in many other discussions. Michael Greenberg, from the Brooklyn Polytechnical Institute, said "Viet Nam the invasion of "Viet Nam, the invasion of the Dominican Republic and the repression of blacks have exposed America's basic imperialist aims. Rational foreign and domestic pol-icies that square with these aims are getting more and more difficult to formulate".

62-100839-55. O.

I STATE OF THE STA

Genovese outlined a series of pitfalls that militant blacks would have to avoid: black enclave (ghetto) economies which poor reflections of their capitalist context; and opportunism and reformism on the one hand and Maoist romanticism on the other. Advocates of black power "need a clear line", he said, "on their national and international possibili-ties. A radical black party needs wide alliances".

Mandel and Alperovitz both stressed the centrality of "worker alienation" in existing advanced Western countries in planning an alternative socialist vision. The French workers knew from the start, Mandel said, tnat tne crucial issue was not wages or hours but their own participation in producand decition processes sions.

Alperovitz, who drew on his studies 'in Eastern Europe and Asia of cooperative workers groups, noted the old socialist contradiction between centrally imposed accipitate reference and poseti studies in Eastern Europe and Asia of cooperative workers groups, noted the old socialist contradiction between centrally imposed socialist reforms and participatory government. "William A. Williams (of the University of Wisconsin) is absolutely right in saying ism".

In his studies he has looked at "micro-socialist units" which are set up as "small communities of social own-ership". Many New Left groups in the U.S., he said, are adopting these in an effort to make their organizations more manageable and humane.

that the conservatives have been the only ones to see the inherent evil in transferring power to a central government. Socialism in the past has always been statism".

ReNYlet 3/24/69 (FD-128).

Review of appropriate files, FBI Identification Division, failed to locate any identification record identifiable with subject. Under the circumstances, a Security Flash Notice cannot be placed regarding the subject with the Identification Division. Refer to Manual of Instructions, Section 87D, pages 27 and 27a.

Relet indicated a Security Flash Notice had been placed with the Identification Division, which is in error. New York should score form error against responsible personnel.

Will make inquiry of established sources at the University of Rochester to verify captioned subject's appointment within the Department of History.

Will also determine if captioned subject has arrived at the University of Rochester yet. If he has not, appropriate stops should be placed so that the Buffalo Division is apprised of his arrival there.

New Haven Division is not submitting an FD-122 at this time nor requests any investigation in Canada as it is apparent that within the next 60 to 90 days, captioned subject will begin his new position at the University of Rochester.

nochester U. Hires Genovese Controversial Rutgers Figure

ROCHESTER, June 6 (AP)—
The appointment of Dr. Eugene
D. Genovese, a controversial
Tigure at Rutgers University four years ago, as a professor and chairman of the history department at the University of Rochester was approved today by university trustees.

Dr. Genovese, now a professor of history at Sir George Williams University in Montreal, stirred a controversy at the New Jersey university when he was reported to have advocated a Viet Cong victory and proclaimed himself a Communist.

In a report issued later to Gov. Richard J. Hughes, a board quoted Dr. Genovese as having denied favoring a Viet Cong victory, but having said rather that he hoped for the withdrawal of United States from Vietnam.

A disagreement at Rochester University over whether he should be hired sparked the resignation of two department comparisons as month.

MISCELLANEOUS

The November 12, 1969 edition of the "Democrat and Chronicle," daily newspaper published in Rochester, New York, contains an article captioned "U.R. Prof Cautions Protestors." This article quotes "the controversial Dr. Eugene Genovese" as saying that protestors "have to show by opposing the war (in Vietnam) we are defending the honor and dignity of a country to which we are wholly committed."

GENOVESE also said, "The great bulk of Americans who support this war do so for decent reasons, however misguided they may be. These people we are out to win over, not to put down."

CONFIDENTIAL

BU 100-19807

The May 5, 1970 edition of "The Times Union," daily newspaper published in Rochester, New York, in an article captioned "Students Leave, Clean Up Building," quotes Professor GENOVESE as having advised students not to use violence in demonstrations which took place at the UR.

The same article says that GENOVESE also told students only a "total effort by concerned students to go out and talk to people, middle class working people and convince them, or at least let them know what kind of people you are, and that you want their help in ending this violence ... will help end this fiasco."

Sources stated that GENOVESE has had an obvious calming influence on students at the UR. Sources pointed out that since his employment at the UR, the incidents of student unrest and disruption has diminished substantially. Sources feel that credit for this trend can be attributed largely to GENOVESE. Sources said that GENOVESE is generally well thought of by the students and that they generally accept his advice to use non-violent tactics.

Anti-war fight shakes meeting of historians

By TIM WHEELER Daily World Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, Ddec. 29 — Displaying unexpected strength, radical historians today shook the 84th annual meeting of the American Historical Association with militant protests against the Vietnam war and repression at home.

The radicals led the gathering in a walkout from a seminar on Southeast Asia policy featuring author Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., and Walt Rostow, whom they regard as the main ideologists of U.S. imperialism. The historians then went to the Justice Department to protest the U.S. war in Vietnam and the annihilation of the Black Panther Party at home.

Establishment historians appear to have been caught off guard. One-fourth of the participants of last night for Prof. Staughton Lynd, radical leader, to be the next president of the Association - the first contested election in the history of the Association. The vote was 1,040 to 396.

Radicals gaining

There are more than 7,000 at this gathering, most of them nonvoting, and support for the radical movement against war and racism appears to be gaining the ascendancy. Even among the voting members a large bloc appears undecided.

The radicals met in caucus today to map a strategy for winning them to the anti-war, anti-racist cause. Lynd told the radical caucus, "We are working on the expectation of a move by (C. Van) Woodward to adjourn the session tonight without debate on our resolutions. We want to show who is being totalitarian, who is being democratic. We want to make possible a discussion on our resolutions."

Lynd was referring to four resolutions against the war, racism, and the undemocratic structure of the Association itself.

The establishment historians in a panic unleashed a furious compaign its Coch far to perfect killer debate on the resolutions. The possibility of passage of an anti-Vietnam war resolution forced the reactionaries to resort to open ter-

Arthur Waskow, director of the Institute for Policy Studies here in Washington, was physically attacked in the corridor of the Sheraton-Park Hotel by an irate reactionary. "This little fat man walked up to Waskow and tried to stuff a newspaper in his mouth," an eyewitness told this reporter. "There have been several scuffles. I wouldn't have thought I would have seen this kind of physical terror used at a gathering of Ph.D.s"

While goon tactics against the radicals were unleashed in the corridors of the hotel, the establishment posed in public as the champion of "free speech."

Genovese's tirade

Eugene G. Genovese, formerly of nurgers Oniversity, accused the radicals of attempting to purge from the Association supporters of the Vietnam war. He called upon the gathering to "put them (the radicals) down hard, and put them down once and for

"I am not about to let Professor Lynd lecture me on Vietnam, Genovese said.

In defense of cold war advocates, Genovese added, "It is not our business to self righteously sit and read them out of the human race. No member of this Association who supports this war could remain a member" if Lynd is elected.

Thus Genovese became the mouthpiece of a crude Spiro Agnew-like turnabout in which the victims of repression of free speech become the gaggers of dis-

Establishment historians, such as Rostow and Schlesinger, maneuvered to no avail last night to adjourn the debate on Lynd's candidacy and the resolutions. The majority held out, until midnight against adjournment.

Anti-war fight shakes historians

The sharpest resolution reads:

"Resolved, that as citizens and historians, we recognize and find intolerable the present direction of the American Government. In order to pursue an imperialist war against the people, the Nixon administration has increasingly moved to repress political opposition at home.

"Moreover, the physical and cultural destruction of the Vietnamese people reflects a much older and deeper policy of physical and cultural destruction of the black community at home, and is now being carried into new versions of racism by the administration in its 'civil rights' program and its aid to counter-insurgent police forces in the great cities. The political assassination of the Black Panther Party is the most blatant example."

Other issues raised by the radicals were male chauvinism and racism in the field of history itself. Democratic reorganization of the Association to bring minority groups and women into the field was urged in resolutions.

Another resolution called for inclusion of graduate and undergraduate students in the governing body of the Association.

Captioned individual is presently a Priority II SI Subject. He is Chairman of the History Department at the University of Rochester (UR), Rochester, N. Y., and has often publicly identified himself as a Marxist. He has long opposed U.S. Involvement in Vietnam.

However, there has been no information indicating he has affiliated with any basic revolutionary groups, including PIP, within past five years. Moreover, public and confidential sources have stated that GENOVESE has urged students to use non-violent tactics. Confidential sources have also advised that GENOVESE is well thought of by students who have generally accepted his advice to use non-violent tactics.

It thus appears that subject does not meet criteria for inclusion on the Security Index, and Bureau is requested to consider deleting subject therefrom.

"THE GEORGIAN"

THE ROLE OF THE RADICAL

Part I of the text of Prof. Genovese's speech, delivered at the fourth in the series of lectures on Vietnam, was presented in the last issue. Part II deals primarily with, the actions of a certain member of the Sir George faculty and the possible alternative actions of those, wishing to change the power structure.

To be specific, I should like to sketch, these and in so doing I should like to confront the stupid and malicious pronouncements recently emanating from our local nihilists. On October 20, Mr. David Orton of the Sociology Department published in the georgian a thinly veiled his adolescent assault was disguised as an obituary for Che Guevara - that he of a great revolutionary in order to serve his own personal and factional ends says all we need to know about his character. I shall not dwell on the mostobviously shabby features of his attack. - that is, on his retreat into household gossip. It seems that what he calls academic Marxists, apparently in contradistinction to guerilla fighters like himself, "make absolute distinctions between revolutionary theory and revolutionary action," This statement martinis, I should respectfully suggest that if the best our revolutionary heros has to offer consists of snooping into other people's private lives, then revolutionaries are not quite what they used to be. I am tempted to ask here: Just who is this self righteous gossip? Where has he been? On what barricades has he fought? For what revolutionary party or tendency does he speak? What state apparatus has he ever confronted? And what heroism, besides the purely verbal, has he displayed that he is so quick to malign the rest of us?

But I shall leave these personal asides, washer-woman biographical however hurriedly, the tasks we face, excursions, and the rest of this trivia to our local people's hero. In fact, I should not have bothered mentioning his article at all - for it is intrinsically unworthy of attention - were it not that it exposes certain unfortunate tendencies among our younger radicals, who, do attack on his leftwing colleagues. That, commend respect for their militancy and desire to avoid repeating old mistakes. I shall, therefore examine several manipulated the grief over the murder of Mr. Orton's propositions in the hope of clarifying some existing issues.

Mr. Orton makes several points, which directly contradict those I have suggested here today, The revolution will be made by those who act, not by those who talk endlessly - and naturally no one would disagree. He then suggests that direct action, whatever that means, is called for now, that such action cannot be limited to the arena approved by the bourgeois state, and that Fidel's dictum obtains: "The duty of the revolutionary is mere slander, and the only hint of is to make the revolution." Now, of evidence to support it concerns the so-recourse; no one could argue about any called life-style of some of us - I suppose of these trite and meaningless phrases, those of us who wear vests and drink. The problem is what kind of action? under what banner? toward what end? in what context? and on what terrain? On all this, our hero is silent, But what is clearly implied in his article and in his more recent tantrums is the proposition that we are in a revolutionary crisis calling for a direct confrontation with the state apparatus. This underlying proposition. I submit, is nonsense and will readily be recognized as nonsense by anyone who takes the trouble to consider it seriously even for a moment.

To defend such an assertion Mr. Orton would have to provide an analysis of the political, economic, and social situation in the Western countries and especially in the United States; he would have to show how the? state apparatus is deep in trouble and close to crumbling. I invite him to present this argument in a public debate at his earliest convenience and am prepared to defend the alternative assertion that anyone who takes such a position is a half-wit.

We have been told to stand ready to die. We have not been told where, how, or exactly in what cause. I do not myself see the immediate advantages of erecting barricades in Montreal or in New York. To do so would undoubtedly make our local masochists and wouldbe martyrs feel better. But revolutionaries are interested in politics, not personal salvation; they are interested in changing society, not merely in defying it. The Left has already accumulated a sufficient storehouse of martyred saints and glorious, inspiring defeats: I humbly suggest that what we need now are a few mundane victories, Permit me therefore to present an alternative perspective: permit me also to do it in a necessarily sketchy and schematic form. I would hope, however, that there will be other occasions to pursue the

First, the hopes for a direct confrontation with the bourgeois state in the West receded with the defeat of the revolutionary forces after World War I and certainly with the recovery of the fore. Western socialists must reorganize in order to effect a structural transformation of society from within,

"THE GEORGIAN"

ISSUE OF 1-12-67

Second, as imperialism is forced to retreat on a world scale, it will increasingly be forced to confront grave problems at home. Therefore, the relative quiescence of the working class and even of large sections of the new middle classes and the intelligentsia is not a permanent condition.

Third, the revolutionary advance in the West depends, for the moment at least, on advance in the underdeveloped world. Therefore the Left must stanchly defend those revolutions and in so doing must guarantee-itself against any flirtation with attempts to divide the world into spheres of influence under the guise of protecting the peace.

Fourth, the strategy of imperialism, outlined earlier in this paper, has had a brilliant and so far successful domestic counterpart. By forcing the Left to react to one new barbarism after another, it has instilled in it a crisis psychology - a perpetual feeling of Armageddon - and has thereby trapped it into tactical adventures while deepening its alienation from society - from the very people it must organize in order to win power. But if the imperialist state cannot be overthrown forcibly by frontal assault. if it must be fought step by step over many decades, then such alienation plays into the hands of the bourgeoisie and becomes a counter-revolutionary force. And on these grounds alone the hippie phenomenon must be judged essentially retrogressive.

Fifth, under conditions of a long - perhaps 50 to 100 years - struggle to change society amidst a world wide palance of nuclear terror, it is the solid gelements to whom we must appeal - the workers, the technical and bureaucratic strata, and the intelligentsia. From a war of barricade confrontation we must pass to what the great Italian Marxist. Antonio Gramsci, called "a war for position on the cultural front". This strategy has several corollaries, to which I should like to turn briefly.

The major ties of the Western masses to the imperialist regimes are not merely economic; they involve a broad ideological adherence. In particular, the notion that socialism threatens freedom and democracy is deeply rooted. To persuade our people, whose commitment to freedom is real and intrinsically admirable, we shall have to champion the struggle for basic freedoms, throughout the world and also present a coherent philosophy, economies, and sociology within which to develop our own claims. The ideological adherence of the masses to the bourgeoisie is total. The masses genuinely do not and cannot believe that anyone else could run society without ruining it and destroying individual liberty. Therefore, the entire culture of the bourgeoisie - its pretensions to the legitimacy of its hegemony - must be fought.

For this reason alone, a professor, let us say, of sociology who patiently analyzes and persuasively refutes bourgeois theoretical systems, while encouraging students to learn every single thing that can be learned from them, makes a genuine contribution to the advancement of our work in a tough ideological war, where as the professor who refuses such an engagement, pretends that such sociological systems have nothing to teach, pretends that their refutation is superfluous, and then retreats into abusive rhetoric and mere denunciation exhibits a failure of nerve-

COMMENT ON THE FOURTH VIETNAM LECTURE

I was not present at Dr. Eugene D. Genovese's lecture on Vietnam, Monday the 20th November. However, several people have conveyed to me some remarks that were made directly and indirectly about myself. I have now also managed to obtain a copy of the lecture text.

Tactics and strategy, for those who see themselves as part of the Left, are naturally matters of contention. There are differences of opinion and one needs to beware of the illusion that there are final answers. As Marx noted, "The dispute over the reality or non-reality of thinking that is isolated from practice is a purely scholastic question." In discussing such matters it seems to me that one should (a) present the opponent's position in its various aimensions and not merely an interpretation of that position, and (b) avoid personal invective. It is evident from the text of Dr! Genovese's lecture that the, avoidance of personal fulminations and the fair presentation of my views were not uppermost in his mind. The extraordinary tone of personal and bitter vilification is surprising. One of my many characterizations in Dr. Genovese's lecture text is that of being "one of our local ignoramuses." After such, a categorical description it is indeed strange that he should offer to publicly debate with me The text of Dr. Genovese's lecture on Vietnam notes that it is addressed in the main. although "not exclusively. to the leftwing of this campus." I hope the leftwing of this. campus gives it the attention it deserves. For myself, I certainly learnt from reading
